

IKUSEI

育成

NURTURE

A carefully curated anthology of haikus by various authors

Compiled by Quillkeepers Press

Dr. Shan K. Sundaram is an Inamori Professor of Materials Science and Engineering at Alfred University, haiku poet, columnist, and a literary writer. He lives in Alfred, NY. His scholarly work has been published in national and international journals and proceedings and his literary work, in local newspaper and national bulletin.

Spring in Alfred, NY

Fluttering flurries

Change of guard hints unnamed joy

Drumrolls Woodpecker!

Swinging bird feeder,

Goldfinches, red cardinals

Sharing and spilling...

Lingering tree moss,

Light green veil lifting slowly...

Trunks strong defiant.

Dandelions dance!

Yellow, white, blue, and purple

Losing to natives...

Cool blue cloudless sky

Jets leave a complex math

problem dis-solving

